You'll Learn A Lot!

The Emotions Before the Explosions with Dr. Ann Corwin

Wouldn't your day and the children's day go more smoothly if feelings were understood and if we addressed first the emotions that lead to explosions? Find out how!

Upside Down and Inside Out: Lesson Planning for Child-Led Classrooms with Barbara E. Harvey

Inside-Out/Upside-Down lesson planning helps you change your focus in lesson planning from the curriculum-focus to children-focused. Start planning with children's interests in mind, no matter what curriculum you're required to use!

Insider Tips for Finding--and Keeping--Great Staff with Jen Carsen

Everyone needs to know what hiring managers look for and how to be the sort of person owners and directors will be eager to hire and try hard to keep. Learn the secrets to finding the best talent and retaining it at your program.

The Physical Environment as a Quality Indicator with Miriam Dressler

Look at how you can use your room arrangement as an 'additional helper' in your classroom, and how to make learning centers come alive with fun and activities that enrich and expand on your group times.

R.I.C.E. – First Aid for Misbehaviors with a H.A.L.F. Dose of Humor with Dr. Debbie Farr

Humor and laughter are great ways of releasing tension and stress – two common causes of misbehavior. So, join us as we learn how to use developmentally-appropriate humor to increase learning (isn't that what discipline is all about?).

Working with Children of Military Families with Liz Williams

Military children face many unique stressors and difficult transitions related to deployment, relocation, separation from loved ones, and changes in family structure. Find here how you can help them!

Creating Calmness When Working With Children with Judy Arnall

Are there times that you find yourself losing patience when working with children? You can develop some new tools! Attend this workshop and come away with new tools for work and your personal life.

Purposeful Outdoor Play with Dr. Patricia Nan Anderson

Outdoor play time is part of the learning day. It's not just a break, for the children or for us. So it makes sense that we plan for learning during outdoor time. How do you do that? And how can you do it without ruining the play? Find out here!

Earn up to 8 professional development hours you can apply to your state's requirements, by participating in this conference via YouTube from home, live-streaming on May 15th or from video links later.
