

DISCLAIMERS

This website is an informational resource. It is not a substitute for working with a business consultant or other professional. I cannot guarantee the outcome of following the recommendations provided and any statements made regarding the potential outcome are expressions of opinion only. I make no guarantees about the information and recommendations provided herein. By continuing to read this website you acknowledge that I cannot guarantee any particular results, as such outcomes are based on subjective factors that are not within my control. Therefore, following any information or recommendations provided on this website is at your own risk. If you need business advice, you should hire a business consultant or other professional.

Some of the links contained on this website may be affiliate links. This means that I may receive a commission if you click on the link and make a purchase from the affiliate. I recommend only those products and services that I know or trust to be of high quality, whether an affiliate relationship is in place or not.

I aim to describe and display my products and services as accurately as possible. However, I cannot guarantee their uses for your particular circumstances and purposes. Please do not accept that the descriptions contained on this website are entirely accurate, current, or error-free. Occasionally, I may correct errors in pricing and merchandise descriptions.