

Editor's Choice

☰ Go to section

Want to Read More? To continue reading this article, please Log in or Register Now

Coronavirus (COVID-19): Remote Work as the New Normal Post-Pandemic

Author: Jennifer Carsen

The effects of the novel coronavirus will reverberate in US workplaces for years, and there will never be a return to the pre-pandemic state of "normal." Given the sweeping impact, it is not too early to start considering what the world of work will look like after the most immediate crisis has passed.

For many employers, the biggest permanent change will be a more remote - or entirely remote - workforce. Here are some key considerations to keep in mind as businesses move to a more distributed model.

